

2023 National High Performance Program

Tennis Canada is carefully monitoring the COVID-19 pandemic nationally and globally and how it may impact all athlete funding as currently outlined in the National High Performance Program. At any time, and with little notice, Tennis Canada may be required to modify or eliminate programs in 2023. In such circumstances, modifications will be communicated to all affected individuals as soon as possible.*

Tennis Canada has created a player development pathway with the vision of becoming a world leading wheelchair tennis nation. The pathway is comprised of four pillars, two of which are focused specifically on high performance development: perform and podium. It includes all playing divisions and is linked to the Tennis Canada Long Term Athlete Development Model and the result of studying international best practices. The pathway is illustrated in Figure 1 below.

Figure 1:

4 key platforms

The Podium Pathway, part of the Perform and Podium pillars, includes the Podium Results Track, Winning Style of Play, and Gold Medal Profile.

The National High Performance Program (NHPP) is one component of the pathway and is designed for athletes who are on track to meet Tennis Canada's, Sport Canada's, and Own the Podium's performance and podium objectives in 2023 and beyond. The overall objectives include:

- Paralympic and ParapanAm podium results
- Top 16 ITF singles world rankings
- Targeted World Team Cup results
- A pool of next gen athletes

NHPP: Streams and Performance Indicators

The NHPP is geared to athletes moving through the high performance pathway and is divided into two streams: Podium and Performance.

The Podium Stream is divided into three levels: Gold, Silver, Bronze

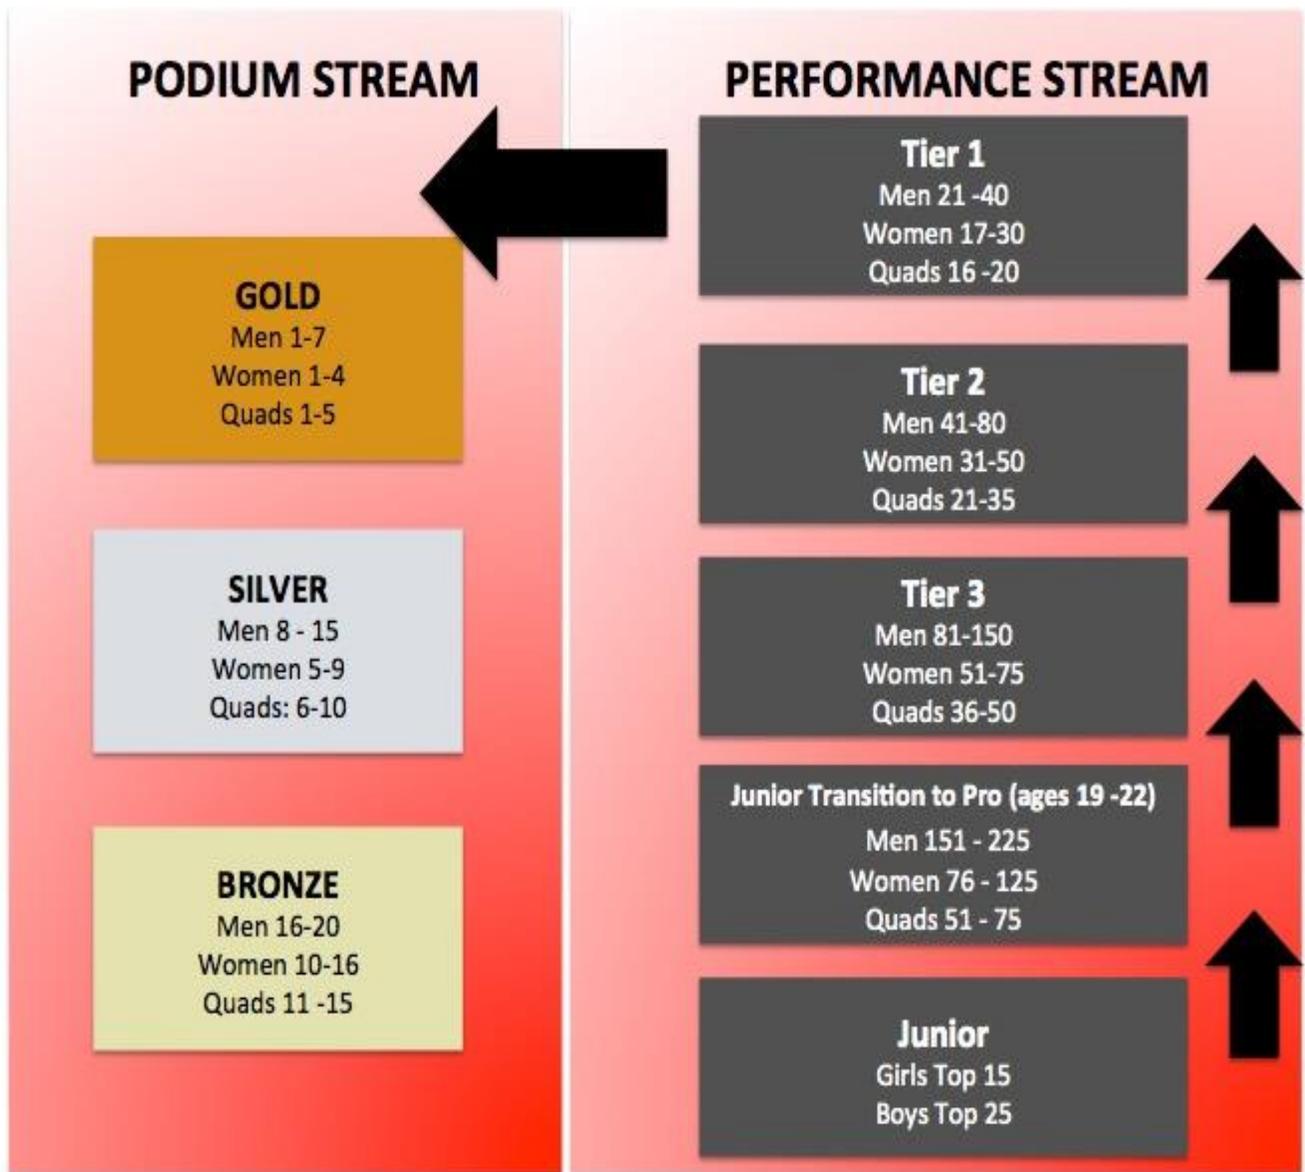

The Performance Stream is divided into six levels: Tier 1, Tier 2, Tier 3, Junior Transition to Pro, Junior, Prospect

The pathway, and associated performance indicators, will be reviewed annually to ensure the dynamic nature of the sport is captured. To be eligible for consideration for the NHPP an athlete must attain a minimum ITF singles ranking by October 31, 2023, as per Figure 2 below:
